

A New Simulation model of BCI source

Irina Oganezova^a

e-mail: irina.oganezova@ens.tsu.edu.ge

^a Electrical and Electronic Engineering, Tbilisi State University

New lumped-parameters models of wire clamps are proposed and discussed. The models are extracted from measured S parameters of clamp mounted onto calibration fixture. Generated BCI and current probe simulation models can be used EMC testing of realistic cable harness according to OEM standard. The accuracy and efficiency of proposed simulation model is estimated by comparison of simulated results with measured data.